ENG 101

This I No Longer Believe Reflection

My first writing piece of the semester I wouldn't say it's my strongest paper nor the paper I'm most proud of. It was my first college paper and in a genre that I'm not comfortable writing in because it was something that I had trouble writing about and deciding exactly what to write about the paper didn't turn out as well as I expected it to be. If I were to have more preparation and more information about how to write a creative non-fiction then I think I would have done a lot better. Looking back at the rubric, my paragraphs are organized but there not clear after reading you couldn't take understand the main point I was trying to make. Also the writing was a bit informal which didn't me lose that much points but later on there will be instances were I'd have to change the writing style to be formal.

Overall, this paper isn't really a good paper, I can't really say anything more besides the fact that I don't like it. The only thing I wish was different was the genre itself because personally creative nonfiction is too boring or not interesting it would have been better if it was creative fiction because you would have more freedom in a way to write something completely unique even if it doesn't make sense. If I were to write this paper again I would, since there's room for improvement.
